BLABBERMOUTH PARROT TESTIFIES AT DIVORCE TRIAL!!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

Angry wife Rosella DeGambos got a family insider to testify in her divorce trial — a blabbermouth parrot named Beau!

The star witness spilled all the family secrets in his two-hour appearance before the court, but Mrs. DeGambos, 47, got her divorce.

"I knew he'd seen everything that my husband Carlos did when my back was turned," Mrs. DeGambos said in an interview about her bizarre divorce court play. "And I knew he had the vocabulary to describe what he'd witnessed.

"My lawyer thought at first it was a ridiculous idea to call my Beau, but he doesn't know Beau like I do."

Incredibly, the 14-year-old cockatoo answered questions and identified photos during his testimony before Judge Manuel Agosto at the civil court in Salta, Argentina. According to press accounts, the bird tended to repeat himself but presented convincing proof that his master, a businessman, had been unfaithful.

The stool-pigeon parrot described three "pretty dollies" that Carlos, 52, had "tickled" while his wife was away. He also identified the women in photographs, calling them by their correct names.

"I used to think that Carlos was a faithful husband but Beau let me know about a year ago that something was up when I wasn't home," Mrs. DeGambos said. "He was using new words, words of love. And he began singing in a high-pitched feminine voice. He kept saying, 'Mr. Carlos, not here,' and things like that. I knew if the lawyers could get him to testify, there was plenty of information they could get from him."

Sure enough, in sworn statements, the feathered witness squawked out secret after secret. Beau even pictures of a 23-year-old beautician Carlos allegedly wooed in his house. the bird shrieked, "Honeybun, I love you." When Mrs. DeGambos' attorney asked the bird, "Who loves Carlos?" the winged witness said, "Ruby loves Carlos. Ruby loves her baby." Ruby is DeGambos' secretary.

At one point the bird's testimony even indicated that there were problems between the DeGambos. When shown a picture of Mrs. DeGambos, he said, "Pretty birdie, pretty birdie," and "Hot tonight, honey."

"It's an outrageous result in my client that this bird-brained witness should be called to testify against him before the court," said Carlos DeGambos' lawyer, Jorge Lunes.

Judge Agusto, who granted Mrs. DeGambos her divorce, overruled the attorney's objections and let Beau's testimony stand. the first such ruling in the world, legal experts say.

BEAU, a 14-year-old cockatoo, gave away all the family secrets at his owners' divorce trial.

Expert wants us all tested for AIDS!

By MARTHA ATKINS

Every man, woman and child in America should be tested for AIDS, say scared-stiff researchers.

The Hudson Institute of Indianapolis, Ind., reports that up to 14.5 million Americans will be infected with the AIDS virus by the year 2002 unless strong measures are taken by government and society to control the epidemic.

The institute says that practicing "safe sex" through the use of condoms is not enough in itself to stop the spread of the dread disease. Society should "urge those who carry the virus not to have sex with anyone ... at all," says William Johnston, the institute's vice president for special projects.

Killer jelly wipes out bugs!

Researchers have come up with a new way to get rid of pesky insects — killer bug jelly!

"Biogel" is a gelatinous material that contains parasites that are the insects' natural enemies along with a feeding stimulant to attract the bugs. It was developed by Frank Chang, a Temple University biology professor, and graduate student Michael Gekret.

Chang says "biogel" pesticides can't harm plants, animals or the environment, but can kill beetles, termites, cockroaches, boll weevils and other insects within days.

Clerk teaches cocky crook a humiliating lesson

Gutsy woman arm wrestles robber for the money — and WINS!

FEISTY Vesta Prass shows the arm-wrestling stance she used to whip a cocky crook after she refused to turn over any money to him.

Punk puts away his gun and slinks out the door

You don't step on Superman's cape. You don't spit into the wind. You don't tug the mask of the old Lone Ranger. And you don't ever . . . EVER! . . . arm wrestle with Vesta Prass — even if you're packing a gun!

That's not quite the way Jim Croce put it in his 1970s hit tune (Bad) Bad Leroy Brown, but it's the humiliating lesson learned by a nacho gunman when he tried to stick up a busy launderette in Salt Lake City, Utah.

By DICK DONOVAN

When petite, 35-year-old attendant Vesta refused to hand over the launderette's money, the cocky gunman dared her to arm wrestle him for the money.

Shocked and frustrated, the beaten bowl put his gun in his pocket, turned and, with head hung like a cur with its tail between its legs,

"I wasn't intimidated by him . . . he picked the wrong time," the spunky mother of two told The NEWS. "I was having a really bad day.

"He didn't do anything right. For one thing, he came in here in broad daylight . . . in the afternoon and the place was to rob me with all these people around? You've got to be kidding.' One of my employees was standing right behind me.

"I said, 'I'm not giving you any money,' and he said, 'You're not?' I said, 'No. Go ahead and do whatever you have to do, but you're not getting any money.'

"Then he said, 'Well, will his 30s and about 6-foot-2. And I beat him."

Vesta admits she's no athlete. Though she has arm wrestled with men before, at 5-foot-2, she's certainly no giant.

"He made me mad. I can't use the word I want to use," Vesta explained. "But what was I supposed to be? A wimp? Was I supposed to

Expert tells how you can find true love

By MARTHA ATKINS

If your New Year's resolution is to find true love, a top expert has some advice on how to win the heart of the guy or gal of your dreams.

Psychologist Tracy Cabot has written three books explaining her techniques on how to get a man or woman to fall in love with you.

The following step-by-step guide gives her advice on how you can succeed at love.

1. Learn the technique of mirroring. This means you should act like the person you want to fall in love with you. Copy the way they walk and talk, the way they look at you, their values, beliefs and the way they communicate.

"People tend to trust those who behave like them," said Miss Cabot.

2. Avoid letting the relationship become one-sided. Be assertive and don't give too much too soon.

Don't let the person you want walk all over you.

"If you don't like something someone does," says Miss Cabot, "tell them about it immediately, because once you let them get away with it, it'll be hard to get them to change later on in the relationship."

3. Don't direct criticism directly at the person.

"When you have something critical to say, say something nice first," said Miss Cabot. "Direct the criticism toward an inanimate object instead of at the person.

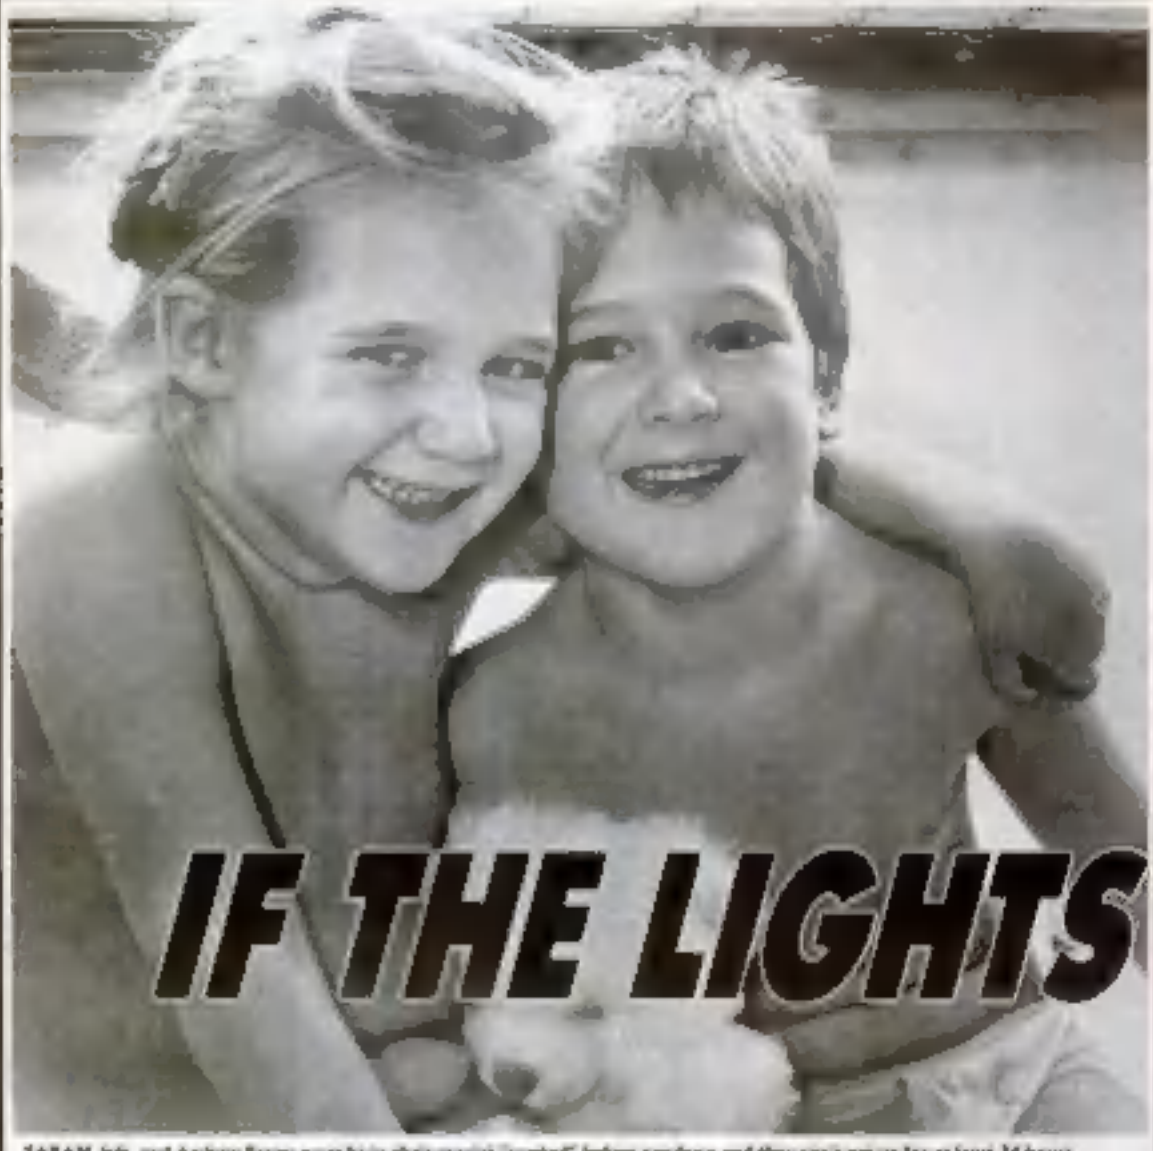
"For example, if your lover leaves dirty towels on the floor, say: 'I hate dirty towels on the floor' instead of 'I hate it when you throw dirty towels on the floor.'"

4. Commitment means compromise. This means you won't always get your own way.

"Succeeding in love will inevitably mean you'll have to make some changes in your life-style," said Miss Cabot.

5. Resolve problems without fighting.

"Any relationship, no matter how good, has conflicts from time to time," said Miss Cabot. "The trick is to resolve them without fighting."



IF THE LIGHTS

SARAH, left, and Andrew Foran must be in their special "sunbed" before sundown and they can't get up for at least 14 hours.

Little Sarah and Andrew Foran are scared of the dark — because they know it could kill them!

The 5-year-old girl and her 6-year-old brother suffer from a rare liver problem that must be treated with bright light. They eat, play and even sleep under special lights that help their ailing livers break down deadly toxins. Without such special treatment their incurable disease leads to horrible brain damage and eventually death.

By SUSAN JAMISON

"It's a terrible existence," said the children's mother Angela Foran of Cookham, England. "They can't survive without special light treatments.

"They must sleep on a brightly lit sunbed so that they can have enough light each day to keep going. They miss out on things because they always have to be in bed at home by 6. We can only go away for the day because they have to be back in time for their treatment." The youngsters' rare condition — known as Crigler Najjar — keeps their livers from producing enough of an enzyme that is needed to break down their bodies' waste products. Light encourages the liver to produce more of the enzyme.

Even with light treatments, the brother and sister's skins are waxy yellow from jaundice. So vital are the treatments that nothing can interfere with them — not even happy family outings or after-school time with their baby brother James, 3, who is our pal.

To spend enough time under the lights the children must be in bed at 6 p.m. so that their bodies can absorb enough light before they go to school in the mornings. But Sarah and Andrew's parents are hoping they may one day have a less rigid schedule.

They know there are special portable lamps that can provide their children with sufficient light in just six to eight hours a day.

The units cost $5,000 apiece, but already donations are piling up to help the sick youngsters get the new equipment they need.

"The new equipment is portable so we could take them away to the seaside for the weekend for the first time — or even have a holiday," Mrs. Foran said.

"They are both very bright and happy children, but certainly does the treatment will greatly improve their quality of life."

Experts say there is a brighter future ahead for Sarah and Andrew. The two ailing children will probably get liver transplants when they are teenagers so they can be free of the treatments completely and enjoy a much more normal life.

Brother and sister with rare disease can't survive in darkness!

THE CHILDREN are always bathed in bright light — even when they are sleeping at night.

Booby-trapped corpse blows up at funeral!

By STEVE PATTON

A dynamite-stuffed corpse exploded in a crowded funeral home — killing two mourners and injuring a dozen more!

"It was awful, a nightmare," eyewitness Citeron Durán told newsmen in Medellín, Colombia.

"One minute my friend Jorge Marías looked so peaceful in his coffin.

"The next minute there was a horrible explosion. Smoke and fire filled the air. When the smoke cleared people were crying and screaming.

"And Oscar was gone."

The mind-bending tragedy unfolded a few days after Marías, an anti-drug crusader, was gunned down on the steps of his home in Medellín.

Police have no suspects in the case. But they believe drug kingpins ordered the hit because Marías was making trouble for them.

"Mr. Marías despised drugs and courageously spoke out against them," said a police officer who requested anonymity.

"He was organizing citizens to help fight the war on drugs here in Colombia when he was murdered in front of his home.

"Most if not all of the people he recruited attended his funeral. Whoever put dynamite in his corpse was surely trying to get to them."

Officials at the Fernandez-Moreno Funeral Home where Marías' body was prepared for burial refused to comment on the explosion.

But detectives said employees of the funeral home were not implicated in the blast.

"The corpse was stuffed with four or five sticks of dynamite that were detonated by remote control," said Medellín Police Detective Emilio Fuentes.

"Two people standing beside the coffin were killed instantly. Twelve other people suffered burns and ruin. That was bad. But it's a miracle more people didn't die."

Marías' family went into hiding after the funeral and have not been available for comment.

Said Det. Fuentes: "We'll do our best to find out who killed Mr. Marías and put dynamite in his body.

"But I seriously doubt we'll ever make an arrest — much less send anybody to jail."

"Ex-Truck Driver Gets $21,108 a Month Doing What You Aren't"

By Neville B. Lavin - Special Feature Writer

Orlando, FL. - "In only 6 months I took on a whopping $126,648! - and I can take any average person and show them exactly how to do it," declares Lawrence Tibbit.

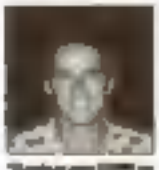
Tibbit began a few years ago with humble beginnings as a truck driver. But the call didn't start to roll in until he discovered this little known money making secret.

Now, on a total basis, Tibbit has begun to train everyday people, just like himself, how to duplicate his new system.

Already the results have been astounding. For example, one person in St. Augustine wrote that they had made $8,911 in an unbelievable 8 days!

"I'm no smarter than you," he says, "really, I have discovered an amazing wealth system."

"Put my program into action," he says, "and you are almost driving your sparkling Mercedes, BMW, or Cadillac. You decide your friends with your new dream home. And people see you walking like a champion."



"Broke as ever $126K on my system! Bills piled..."

Now, you may not make as much as Tibbit... but if you are a real "Go-Getter," you will make even more. And above all, the nice part is that you win the respect of your friends and family.

Tibbit has offered to send further details to readers who want to learn his new wealth system. Simply send your name and address to:

"Tibbit-EVPU" Dept. 88888 N. 42T, Suite 6, Longwood, FL., 32750.

Sending $5 to cover postage, processing and handling is greatly appreciated, though not required. He sure will call on you.

Gay gigolo woos 300 wealthy women — then dies of AIDS!

GAY romeo William Quinn died of AIDS in December.

A jet-set gigolo wooed more than 300 wealthy women around the world and left them with something to remember him by — AIDS!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Rich socialites throughout Europe and the British Isles are horrified that smooth-talking William Quinn, who died of AIDS on December 14, passed the deadly disease on to them.

Can man Quinn, 48, was able to charm his way into the beds of lonely women on two continents even though he was gay.

The Irish-born lover died in a London, England, hospital shortly before he was to stand trial on 46 fraud charges resulting from his globe-trotting deception.

"Even though he was a bisexual, there are all these middle-aged women who knew him by a variety of names and will love him till their dying day," said Police Det. Simon Chambers.

"He had places in America, France, Yugoslavia, Italy, and several in London." For 20 years Quinn fooled friends and lovers who believed he was a surgeon called Serge Massaire.

His favorite con was to run up massive credit card bills and then write a letter to the credit companies from a Scottish lawyer saying he had died in a car crash.

The silver-tongued shyster also cheated health insurers out of thousands of dollars by claiming medical treatment he never received. "But we have no complaints that he ever conned any of his women out of anything but their love and affection," said Detective Chambers.

"I imagine they may change their impression of Quinn when they find out what killed him," he said.

Quinn was arrested at London's Heathrow Airport on a trip from Yugoslavia to Dublin. He died a few months later.

Stutterers don't when they sing

People who stammer when they talk don't when they sing because a different side of the brain controls each function.

Stuttering is a disorder of the rate, rhythm and flow of speech, said Grace Perrotta, a speech pathologist and director of the Atlanta Rehabilitation Institute.

She says speech is a left-brain-controlled function, especially the rate and rhythm, while singing is under the control of the right brain. So when the control is switched from the left to the right side of the brain, the disorder is no longer evident.

Another reason why singing is easier than talking is that the cadence of speech is controlled by the speaker and music has an imposed cadence of its own.

It's a miracle!

FLYING POOCH SURVIVES 500-FT. PLUNGE

HE'S LUCKY to be alive! Miracle dog Guinness gives 10-year-old Danny Dighton a glad-to-be home kiss after his fall.

PLUNGING pooch miraculously missed jagged rocks — and certain death — when he fell from a 500-ft. cliff into the sapphire below. Owner Lee shows his flight path.

Springer spaniel hit water at an incredible 100 m.p.h.!

By MARTHA ATKINS

When their pet pooch leaped over the side of a 500-foot cliff, the Dighton family thought he was a goner — but when they looked over the edge, he was paddling toward shore!

Barry and Elizabeth Dighton and their 10-year-old son Danny were on a weekend outing when they stopped at a scenic spot near Beachy Head in Sussex, England.

Their springer spaniel Guinness had been on a leash all day and they were letting him loose for a run when he took his flying leap.

"I had no idea we were so close to the edge," said Mr. Dighton, who was checking the cliff for safety. "I was walking back to the car when Guinness went racing past me, chasing a bird. I couldn't stop him."

The Dightons, who are in cliff top, expecting to see their beloved pet splattered on the rocks below.

Instead, they saw Guinness bravely struggling through rough waters in a small shingle beach. Miraculously, he'd missed the jagged rocks below because the tide was in and he'd jumped far enough from the cliff edge.

Mr. Dighton immediately ran to a local restaurant for [illegible] members of a local boat rescue team there. They agreed to use their boat to try and rescue the pooch.

With the help of the coast guard service, the little motor boat made its way to the beach where a shivering Guinness was stranded.

"At first he didn't recognize me because I was wearing a yellow raincoat," said Mr. Dighton.

[illegible] came to me." The lucky mutt suffered no broken bones in his fall but he did have internal bleeding, a damaged lung and a slightly displaced heart.

Experts say the dog hit the water at an incredible 100 m.p.h.!

Guinness has now made almost a full recovery at the family home in Kent, but the Dightons are going to keep him on a firm lead from now

Pet python guards kid

By TILLY SMITH

Six-year-old Yanto Tahar has never been spanked. His parents can't yell at him, either. If they try the boy's hissing pet python gets riled up — and goes after them like gangbusters!

Spotty, the 22-foot snake, was already a family pet when little Yanto was born and took an immediate shine to the tot.

Since that time the two have become inseparable. To top it off, the serpent watches over the boy like a mother hen.

. . . & won't even allow parents to spank him!

"Nobody messes with Yanto, not even my wife or me," Dalius Tahar, the child's 29-year-old father, told newsmen in Jakarta, Indonesia.

"Spotty won't let any harm come to the boy. You'd have to be a fool to try to touch him in anger.

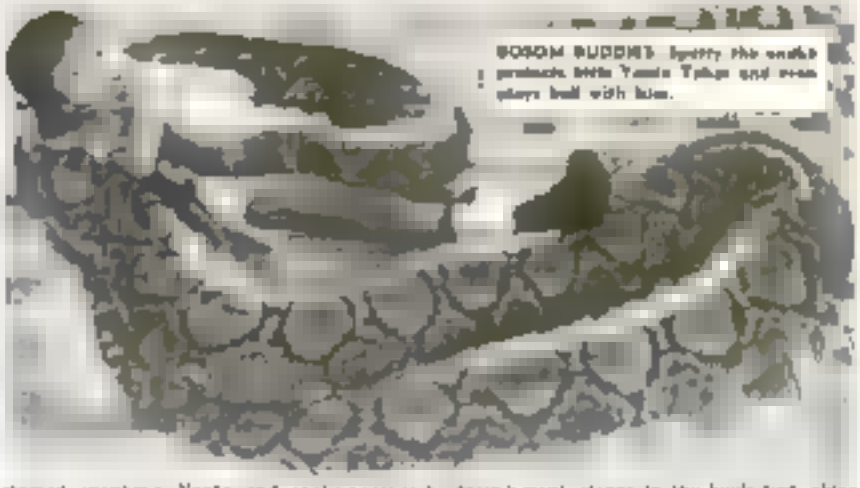
"We can cuddle him . . . with it . . . the time my wife started spanking Yanto and Spotty just wrapped himself around her legs and toppled her to the floor.

"He squeezed so hard she thought she was going to lose circulation.

"You can bet that she hasn't had a hand on him ever since then, I

Tahar won't get rid of the snake because he doesn't want to break his son's heart.

At it stands, the snake sleeps in the boy's bed, plays with him on a swing set — and even fetches a rubber ball.



BOSOM BUDDIES. Spotty the snake protects little Yanto Tahar and even plays ball with him.

Ohio girl, 8, gets an abortion!

SHOCKING Medical Report!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Health authorities have confirmed an 8-year-old Ohio girl got pregnant within the past few months — and underwent an abortion!

The little girl, who lives in Toledo, was not identified by officials, but she is believed to be the youngest girl ever to have an abortion.

Her bizarre case triggered a debate between pro-lifers who oppose terminating any pregnancy and pro-abortion activists who believe a child should not have to bear another child for any reason.

"It would be possible for a girl this young to carry her baby to term," said Dr Laura Tyknego, administrative director of Toledo Hospital and Medical College of Ohio's Reuben Center for Women and Children.

"There have been girls this young who have done it and pro-lifers would say it's desirable.

"But from a medical point of view it's not desirable. The little girl would undergo the (extra) upheaval of becoming a mother while she's still a child herself, and of being separated from her peers and from the normal life of a child," said Dr Tyknego.

"She would undergo the physical trauma of having a baby. There are more physical problems with young mothers — high blood pressure and difficult labor requiring C-sections.

"And the psychological trauma of an early pregnancy is terrible."

Dr. Tyknego said the girl's not recorded pregnancy involved a 9-year-old Peruvian girl.

She said most early pregnancies result when the young mothers report late puberty pregnancies.

"It's common for a child of that age to be producing eggs, to be ovulating, and to be capable of becoming pregnant," he said.

"But if she has gone through puberty and her body structure is maturing, then she probably has the capability of going through pregnancy and delivering."

Details on the little girl have not revealed, including the identity of the father of her child. But a Toledo abortion clinic director said she found it hard to believe anyone could oppose the child's abortion.

"The pro-life people there aren't many people who would be in favor of an 8-year-old having a baby," said Carol Dana, who runs the Cooper for Choice II abortion clinic. "It's shouldn't even have to be faced with a situation like this."

rn-day Jesse James robs train!

By JACK ALEXANDER

A real-life Jesse James robbed two men aboard a stopped train — and made a clean getaway in a car.

The engineer on the Alabama freight train had made an emergency stop near Pearl River, Miss., to inspect some equipment.

"Out of the darkness came a masked gunman with a .38 in his hand," said Sheriff's Sgt. Bill Tark. "He told the engineer and his assistant to hand over their money, and they did."

The young bandit told his victims to lie face down on the floor of the engine after robbing them of about $200.

"They say the lights of a car drove away, but neither victim could identify the type of vehicle because it was dark on the morning," said Sgt. Tark.

Fruitcake congressmen want to put [redacted] uniform

Let's keep gays out of our Armed Forces!

I'm madder than a ballet dancer with a run in his leg warmers that our Supreme Court is even considering letting homosexuals serve in the Armed Forces.

Let's face it. What battle-tough [redacted] is going to share a pup tent with a fairy? And how many of our brave boys will be willing to fight for the good old U.S. of Gay?

If those buffoons in black robes in Washington force the Pentagon to recruit fancy boys, the first thing you know we'll have the Pink Berets — a platoon of people who'll quit fingernails grow long enough to poke out the enemies' eyes out!

Japanese will replace Uncle Sam on those great "I WANT YOU" Army recruiting posters.

But what a gut rip-roaring hit that must be in the Pentagon at lunch the late great John Wayne is in his grave over the whole sick thing. When the cross-dyke charged the beach in The Green Berets, he would've been leading battleship Tom's because there wasn't a queen in his whole damned battalion, by Duke's side.

I'd say Maggie and the gang would do in the great Pat Buchanan. Duke was in all his movies. They'd get beat to a pulp and straight Buchanan would rough and wrestle that's what he did in the movies.

There's probably not a thing we can do to stop the march of the fairies. Fruitcake liberal congressmen are allowing that gays belong in the Rambo army. That's stupid. How many Hollywood directors do you know who've ever got married?

Now I'm not exactly jumping up and down every weekend to recruit either.

But I'd damn rather be in a foxhole with one of those tough-talking gals who says they'll get their gun right between your eyes with a long-winded primped and dia-

Cruel dad locks daughter in outhouse for [redacted] years!

By JOE SIXPACK

Dastardly dad Angelo Tallarita didn't want some smooth-talking romeo making time with his teenage daughter Maria, so he locked the shocked child in an abandoned outhouse — and kept her there for 10 heartbreaking years!

Pretty Maria was a terrified 14-year-old schoolgirl when Angelo lured her into her smelly, bug-infested cell back in 1980.

And over the next decade, the cruel taskmaster let his dark-eyed daughter out only at night — when he walked her like an animal with a chain around her neck.

"This is really one of the saddest cases I've ever seen," police detective Elio Zotti told reporters in Gela, Italy.

"This is a beautiful young woman, and 10 years of her life were simply thrown away. It's a real shame.

"The girl's mother is sick and her brothers do just as their father tells them, so there was no one to rescue her."

Maria's ordeal began one afternoon when her despicable dad spotted her talking to a boy from school and decided to lock her away in secret. Her mother was in the hospital at the time.

"She was taken to the outhouse, and that's where I stayed," the shaken lady recalled.

Miserable Maria, now 24, was finally freed when a neighbor heard her call for help and telephoned police.

"When we found her, the poor woman looked wild-eyed but she was very calm and a little disoriented from all her years of captivity," Detective Zotti said.

Fiendish Angelo, 47, has been convicted of kidnapping and is awaiting sentence.

'glasseyes' nearly drove [redacted] to suicide!

Blind boy gets whopping 80,000 letters of love

. . . as kind strangers open up their hearts to the sightless 12-yr.-old

MOST: Now a handful fight, boy Simon Clifton shows off some of his letters

By JACK ALEXANDER

Blind boy Simon Clifton was swamped with 80,000 cards and letters after strangers learned heartless bullies had made him afraid to leave his house.

Simon, 12, has been blind since he was a baby and has glass eyes. He's been terrorised by the cruel taunts of neighbourhood teens.

They call him 'glasseyes' and poke fun at him. "They always do it when no one is around," said Simon. "Once I felt I wanted to kill myself."

Because of his tormentors, sightless Simon never plays outside his home in Chipperham, England. Mostly, he plays with his cars and listens to music.

His worried mum Tricia asked newspaper readers to send Simon Christmas cards to cheer him up. The response overwhelmed them — and the cards and letters are still arriving.

Along with the staggering 80,000 cards and letters, heartened strangers sent Simon toys, games and gadgets.

"It's amazing," said the surprised schoolboy. "I only requested a couple hundred cards at the most. It has been the biggest day of my life."

Several warmhearted children wrote notes telling Simon not to worry about the bullies. Young kids and retirees mailed him smiles.

The symptoms first hit Simon years ago in a rare disease called retinoblastoma. He first suffered from the eye disease and died after. Simon was 6. Simon boards at a special school for the blind in Exeter during the week and stays home on weekends. That's when the teenage bullies do their thing.

"There are between 10 and 15 [illegible] worried there could be a backlash over the cards because the bullies might be jealous," said Simon.

Simon said he may spend some of the money on a computer for his family.

How the Magic of Miracle Power Crystals was discovered

The Miracle Power Crystal is an extremely rare type of rock crystal found only in scattered parts of the western United States. Geologists estimate that it is at least four million years old.

Several years ago, it became fashionable among the rich and famous to use these crystals in custom made jewelry, along with diamonds, emeralds, rubies and other precious stones. As a result, the wealthy became owners of Miracle Power Crystals without even knowing it.

They soon noticed, however, that all kinds of wonderful things started happening in them! Some suspected that their new jewelry had something to do with their good fortune–but few guessed that the power really came from the Crystal, and the Crystal alone!

Finally, science perfected super sensitive instruments that detect the dynamic energy waves given off by the crystals. They oscillate, vibrate and send out electro-magnetic waves that surround the human body and attract Good Luck, Money, New Friends, Great Romance.

TERROR IN TEHRAN!

Iran's bloodthirsty bosses have found a hideous new way to deal with folks they don't like — looping nooses around their necks and hoisting them with a crane so they slowly choke to death!

And the slaughter has become so common that yesterday's hated victims have been old-fashioned guys dangling over a square in downtown Tehran.

At least 900 so-called drug dealers have been publicly hanged in recent months. But investigators say most victims were simply opponents of the government and had no ties to the drug trade.

"Our main revelation was as a surprise — with a notice warning children of their fate if they dabbled in drugs," said a British businessman who recently visited Iran.

I'm not a fruit or a nut but I haven't had a date in years

Dear Dotti: I read your column every week and can't get over how many lonely people write to you asking how they can find a mate. I'm a 33-year-old woman and haven't gone out with a man since I was 22. Don't get me wrong. I'm not a lesbian or anything like that, I just find that life is a whole lot easier when you only have to look after yourself.

Does that make me crazy or perverted or sick? I don't believe so. But I'm curious to find out what you think. — Alone in Nevada

Dear Alone: If you're happy without a man, more power to you.

Personally, I wouldn't get by without my guy. He's a pain in the butt sometimes but I still love him in my heart. That's what life's all about.

Confidential

Dear Bunny in Bermuda: Practice on a popsicle or a hot dog on a stick.

Dear Woolly in West Field: Get a bigger heating unit or shave.

Dear Toby in Phoenix: If you're not the father, who is?

Dear Low Down in Nipigon Falls: Don't be stupid! All housewives do have domineering mothers.

Dear Dear Dee in Abbeville: If cooking doesn't scramble brains, what happened to yours?

Dear Puzzled in Albany: You want to lose weight? Stop eating like a pig. It's as simple as that.

Dear Worried in [redacted] City: You're a godsend.

Just send all letters you have your address below.

I'm lost without my missing dentures

Dear Dotti: Please, please help me. I misplaced my lower dentures and can't afford a new set. I've been struggling to eat and speak for three weeks now. Please tell me where they are. — Lost in Texas

Dear Lost: I've got a hunch that you threw them in the trash.

But I consulted Countess Sophia Sahar, who specializes in these matters, and she said you dropped them behind a fridge in your bathroom. Next time you lose something, write to Dotti. You'll find her address below.

Should I report my flaky neighbor?

Dear Dotti: Something very strange is going on at my neighbor's house. Every night 20 or 30 people show up in fancy cars, park on the lawn and go inside the house. The shades are drawn so I can't see what's going on.

Does you can hear all kinds of screams and wails until midnight, when all the people get back in their cars and leave. What gives, Dotti? Do you think my neighbor is doing anything illegal? What should I do?

I've thought about calling the police or sneaking over and listening more closely through a window. But I'm not sure that would be the right thing to do. — Worried in Kansas City

Dear Worried: Who do you think you are — the neighborhood busybody? Keep your big nose out of other people's business. This is still America. And what goes on in the privacy of someone's home is their concern alone.

I like girls with lots of makeup

Dear Dotti: Maybe you can help me with my latest problem. You see, I only like girls who wear a lot of makeup.

It has nothing to do with the way they look. It's just I want them to kiss me and smear it all over my face and shirt. I'm beginning to feel like I might be perverted. Am I? — Confused Cad in Indiana

Dear Confused: You're not only perverted, you're sick! Talk to your mother or a preacher or a mental health professional right away. Maybe they can straighten you out before you start putting makeup on yourself.

Ed Asner really makes me mad

Dear Dotti: I enjoy reading Weekly World News and I really love your column but that bitch Ed Asner is the pits.

He treats everybody like they're nobody and acts like he's a god himself. Why did The NEWS hire a fascist pig like that? He's the most ridiculous columnist I've ever read. — Hater Ed in Kansas

Dear Hater: What's your father read every book — Andy Rooney? Give me a break!

Dear all names you have written — and tell it like it is. Just write to me, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Ask the Countess

Is palm reader just handing me a line?

Dear Countess: A friend of mine read my palm and told me that I'll soon have to drop out of school and will never find a decent job. Please tell me the truth, Countess. Is my friend right? — Worried in Maryland offers readers personal advice based on your horoscope. Write to Countess Sahar, Weekly World News, 600 S. East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462, handing your birth date. The Countess offers no love. Do not send money.

Dear Worried: Your so-called "friend" is dead wrong. My crystal ball never lies and after consulting it I see you finishing school on schedule and finding a job that not only pays well but is mentally suited to you. Phony fortune-tellers really get my goat. They have no business scaring people with their nonsense.

Dear Confused: I've struggled to get by all my life but never having enough money to pay my bills.

Countess, couldn't you tell me if you ever will have enough money to pay my bills.

Also, I'm going to have to move from my present apartment and I'm afraid I won't be able to find a new one. Can you see if I'll find a new apartment soon? — Broke in Illinois

Dear Broke: I'd love to help you, dear. I see you having more than enough money to meet your needs.

Dear Countess: I'm a 33-year-old woman who has been married for 10 years. I've been unfaithful to my husband on several occasions and I'm afraid he's found out about it.

I've been seeing a married man for the past six months and I'm very much in love with him. He's been telling me that he's going to leave his wife and marry me, but I'm beginning to have my doubts.

Countess, do you see my husband finding out about my affair? Will my lover ever leave his wife? — Confused in Texas

Dear Confused: I see your husband finding out about your affair, but I don't see him leaving you. I see you and your lover remaining together for a long time.

Dear Countess: I've been dating a man for almost a year and I'm very much in love with him. He's been telling me that he's going to leave his wife and marry me, but I'm beginning to have my doubts.

Countess, do you see him leaving his wife? — Confused in Texas

Dear Confused: I see your lover leaving his wife, but I don't see him marrying

KIDS' BIZARRE 'STUFFING RECIPES' MAY SHOCK YOUR BIRD BACK TO LIFE!

By SUSAN JAMISON

Kiddie cooks can stir up plenty of trouble in the kitchen if they put their minds to it.

Teacher Kathryn Davison asked her third-grade class to come up with recipes for homemade stuffing and the pint-sized chefs went all out. The Princeton, N.J., children deserve A's for imagination but their spelling won't. Too bad they'll have a hard time convincing anyone to try their wild concoctions.

TEXAS' OLDEST COWBOY DIES WITH HIS BOOTS ON

He went just the way he wanted — out on the range under a blanket of stars

By DICK DONOVAN

Thomas E. Blasingame, at 91 the oldest working cowboy in Texas, died just the way he wanted to — lying alone under a blanket of stars on the open range he loved more than anything else on earth!

He was out there on the ranch, breaking in a new cutting pony when he somehow knew his time had come to money on.

He roped the pony to a stop, eased slowly out of the saddle and found himself a peaceful spot.

And sometime that evening, as moonlight slithered over prairie grass glistening with dew, old Tom Blasingame died with his boots on.

He was found by fellow ranch hands at the 7A cattle ranch near the Texas panhandle town of Clarendon. He was lying on his back, arms at his side, his pony grazing nearby.

"He wouldn't have wanted it any other way," cattle foreman Buster McLaury told The NEWS. "If he had written it all down on paper, he wouldn't have changed a single word.

"Tom was one of a kind . . . as good a cowboy as they ever were. He was a real gentleman, and he was a man of his word. He never asked for special favors when it was time for work."

Born in Waxahachie, Texas on Feb. 2, 1886, he first rode for the 7A ranch in 1918. He left two years later, but returned in 1936 and remained there ever since.

Tom married his wife, Ella Jane, when he was 25 years old, before going back to the ranch. Though he spent every week with her, he spent his every week at a remote ranch in Palo Duro Canyon, some miles from the ranch.

"Being a rancher's daughter, I knew where my place was," his wife explained. "He was always busy with the ranch.

"He took care of the ranch and I take care of the house and kids."

Ralph Latimer, Baileys Ranch Cattle said he did all Tom was the displayed old cowboy qualities for a man half his age.

"He could have known he was in trouble, dismounted and laid down on the prairie land. There were no hospitals or ambulances to be near," Buckland said.

Tom Tom was buried in the ranch cemetery. His body lies surrounded by other deceased members of the 7A ranch family. Many of them grandchildren in their teens or twenties, he rode the range to become the oldest living cowboy in Texas.

GETTING saddled up. Tom was photographed on the ranch just a short time before his death.

TOM was more at home in the saddle than anywhere else.

Bird-brain crook stuffed 24 pigeons in [illegible], say cops

A cop thought Thomas Waddell was walking a little funny, so he stopped Waddell on the sidewalk — and found 24 homing pigeons stuffed inside his clothes.

The 28-year-old Baltimore, Md., man was eventually charged with stealing 70 pigeons from two different owners. "He looked like the Michelin tire ad," said Officer Donald Price, who assisted the suspect.

After his arrest, Waddell began shaking and pulling pigeons out of his pants, the policeman said. In all, the officer removed 21 live birds and five dead ones. "There were pigeon feathers all over the place," said the cop.

Here's why Mormons live longer

Mormons have dramatically lower death rates from cancer and heart disease than the general population because they abstain from alcohol, coffee, tea and smoking, a new study reveals.

"It corroborates what Mormons have preached for years," said Mormon Church spokesman Keith Atkinson.

The study was conducted by James Enstrom, a non-Mormon, of the University of California, Los Angeles.

Bizarre 'car bra' beats radar traps

MOM RENTS HORROR MOVIE — AND SCARES HER KIDS TO DEATH!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

A 37-year-old woman was hospitalized in se[illegible] shock after she rented a horror movie — scared her two little boys to death!

Divorced mom Elena Cornea told police she left her sons Janos, 7, and Stefan, 10, watching Nightmare Creatures From Hell on a rented VCR while she went upstairs to clean. When she checked on the boys an hour later they were huddled together in a corner of the living room, stone cold dead.

"The boys had never seen such a really gruesome horror movie before and they apparently panicked," said officer Teodor Andrei of the Focsani, Romania, police force. "An autopsy showed that both of the children died of heart failure."

A coroner reported that the boys suffered from slight heart murmurs before their deaths and the defects may have made them susceptible to shock.

Aside from their minor heart irregularities, the boys were in perfect health at the time they died, the report said.

According to police and neighbors of the divorced young mother was renting the film Wednesday to help a kid following drastic political changes in her country. She rented a movie made in West Germany in 1963 and dubbed in Romanian police said. The grieving mom told police she thought the movie would entertain her sons while she did her housework but had no idea of its gruesome content.

She said her boys were eager to see the movie and were watching the television happily when she left the room.

"Then I heard them scream once or twice but thought they were just having fun. She had no idea there were no signs to what they were seeing."

Police believe the boys laughed away from the video store and did not realize they were in danger.

"Mrs. Cornea has been hospitalized since the incident and is suffering from severe shock after a great depression," Andrei said.

"She never entered a video shop and knew nothing about the movie. They didn't rent in this section because the television was between them and the counter, police believe.

"Mrs. Cornea has been hospitalized since the incident and is suffering from severe shock after a great depression," Andrei said.

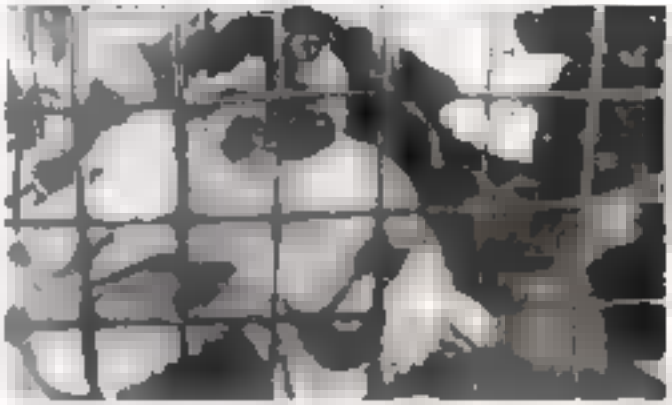
DOGS AND CATS BURIED ALIVE!



DOOMED animals are scheduled to be poured into a gas chamber. But many of the dogs and cats survive the cruel treatment

By DICK DONOVAN

An Illinois dog pound has turned a garbage dump into a horrifying "killing field" — where hundreds of unwanted dogs and cats are buried alive!

That's the shocking charge made by Debbie Allen, a heroic mother of two who has been sickened by the sight of half-dead dogs and cats struggling to escape their garbage bag coffins.

Mrs. Allen and others have actually seen the pitiful castaways feebly attempting to break out of the plastic bags they were put into after they were dragged from a makeshift gas chamber that failed to kill them.

Mrs. Allen, a single, 30-year-old animal lover with two boys and seven dogs, works at the Allen Waste Management landfill site owned by her father near Carbondale, Ill.

The dump located in Jackson County, is where the dog pound in neighboring Franklin County disposes of the dogs and cats they "kill" in their carbon dioxide gas chamber.

"A guy came in with a pickup truck loaded with about 30 animals in plastic bags," Mrs. Allen told The NEWS. "I saw one of the bags flopping. Then it went still — like a paw inside pushing up on it.

"The guy emptied it with the back of his hand and said something I didn't catch. Then he put a couple of other bags on top as though he was trying to hide the one that was moving."

Mrs. Allen said she has filed a complaint against the pound with the Jackson County Sheriff's Department. Her charge is being investigated by Humane Society officials.

One of Mrs. Allen's strongest supporters is Billy Hammond Jr., a private investigator who's determined to have drastic changes in the pound, which he says is more like a "gestapo camp" than an animal shelter.

Hammond said he and his two sons recovered four dogs they found at the dump.

"My boy picked one of them up," he said. "It let out a yelp that whoo — then it went limp in his arms. The other three were warm and limp and appeared to have been dead for only minutes.

"When the dogs are unloaded, the guys doing the unloading back like dogs while they're [illegible] gas. What's the matter with these guys? Are they crazy?"

"I said, 'No, they're not crazy. They're smart. They work like that so no one can hear the dogs whining inside the bags.'"

Hammond said the pound uses exhaust fumes from its engine to destroy the dogs, a method which experts describe as "extremely painful" and far less efficient than the more humane death by lethal injection.

"They put about 30 animals into a 4- by 4- by 8-foot box all at the same time. Then they start the engine. For years, they would just connect the exhaust pipe from a truck to the box and rev up the engine. Now they have to run the pipe through a 55-gallon drum of water to cool the gas. But it's a few minutes the water is just as hot as the gas."

Hammond said he went up day to the Illinois Department of Agriculture for an autopsy. The autopsy disclosed that the dog had lived for three hours after it was buried.

It also disclosed that the animal's internal organs had been severely burned by the hot, carbon monoxide exhaust gas!

Cliff Cochran, a member of the Franklin County Board which oversees the operation of the pound, said the animals are checked by a vet to make certain they are dead before they go to the dump.

Older gals are wildcats in the sack

The older gals get the love they're looking for romance and the more they want wild, passionate sex!

But the older men get the least they want sexual companions. They are the most lonely people, according to a recent survey.

The survey of 600 American men and women found the following facts:

● Only 23 percent of women under the age of 35 were bored into bed by sexual desire.

● However, 42 percent of women over 35 confessed to an interest in sex for the pure physical pleasure.

● Only 31 percent of men under the age of 35 wanted to go to bed with a woman for romantic reasons.

● 59 percent of men over age 55 cited true love as more important than lust.

Help stop these horrors — write!

You can help Billy Hammond prevent bloody murder. He needs letters from people who feel as outraged by the torture chamber as he does . . . letters that he can take to Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson. NEWS readers can help put a stop to the horror. Express your

How to be richer in the 1990s

By MARTHA ATKINS

You can give yourself a pay raise this year even if your boss doesn't — simply by cutting a few corners!

Below are nine suggestions that can save you money in the coming year. Some will save only a few dollars but others will save more, and over the course of the year it'll add up to a tidy sum.

9 ways to save money

1. Raise the deductible on your car insurance from $100 to $500.

You'll probably save yourself $100 a year if you make the change. And since most insurance companies threaten to cancel policies over far small claims, you probably wouldn't submit them anyway.

2. Buy the cheapest aspirin you can find. If you buy generic or store brands instead of the name brands, you can save yourself about a cents a headache.

3. Go to afternoon movies. By attending the early shows, you can save $3.50 a movie or more.

And over the course of a year, if you go to one movie a month, that's a savings of $$.

4. Buy gasoline at the cheapest stations you can find. By shopping around, you can probably save 5 cents a gallon. That adds up to $50 a year if you drive 10,000 miles a year and your car gets 25 miles to the gallon.

5. Use windshield washer fluid to clean your windows at home.

You'll save about $11.90 a gallon, or 3½ cents for every window you clean.

6. Lower the temperature on your water heater from 140 degrees to 130 degrees. If you have a 60-gallon electric water heater, you'll save about $61 a year.

7. Take your lunch to work. Most people spend at least $4 a day, so you can save over $1,000 a year by brown bagging it.

And even if you take your lunch only twice a week, you'll still save over $400.

8. Pay off your credit cards. If you carry the average balance of $700, you'll save about $10.50 a month.

Remember, in 1990 you can deduct only 10 percent of credit card interest on your income tax.

9. Get rid of all but one of your credit cards that have annual fees.

Most people have three, with an average yearly fee of $30, so you can save $60 a year. And if you think you might need more credit, ask the company that issued the card to raise your credit limit.

Two years after [redacted] Wild fell to her [redacted] a seaside cliff her mother's relentless investigation ended in murder charges against a couple [redacted] of killing Deana for insurance [redacted] ey.

Billie Joe and Virginia McClintock, who were jailed in San Diego, claim Deana, 30, accidentally fell 300 feet to her death while posing for a snapshot on the rocky cliffs at Big Sur, Calif.

But cops were convinced it was murder after they reviewed the evidence uncovered by Deana's mother, Bobbie Roberts of Louisville, Ky.

"They called me saying she was accidentally killed," Bobbie said. "But it just didn't feel right. I kept having the haunting feeling that something was definitely wrong."

On a trip to California Deana was befriended by the McClintocks and stayed briefly at the couple's home in Chula Vista. The McClintocks had taken Deana on a sightseeing drive along the Pacific coast on the day of her death in 1987.

UNHAPPY Shri Pandit

Man chooses suicide over ugly bride!

A young doctor took one horrifying look at the ugly bride his domineering parents arranged for him to marry — and blew his brains out.

"I've always obeyed your wishes, but you're asking too much. Please forgive me," wrote Shri Pandit in a suicide note to his parents.

Shri's father, a merchant in Bhatinda, India, whose ancestors had fallen on hard times, had arranged for him to marry Indira Bhatia, the daughter of a wealthy banker. Indira, 18, was a size-seven cow, had almost 1-foot-1 and a male-style haircut. She was also a heavy 196 pounds. "I couldn't bear to wake up every morning and see her lying next to me," wrote Shri.

"Her huge nose looks like one of Buddha's afterthoughts. Her mouth sags to the left when she smiles. Her complexion is sickening. She makes my eyes burn and my skin crawl.

"I will not spend the rest of my life with someone who is morally ugly and dumb as a rock," he wrote.

Shri, 26, had been dating a raven-haired beauty who worked in a hospital where he interned. She was everything Indira wasn't — slim, smart and easy on look at.

But their romance ended when Shri's father said he had arranged a marriage of convenience.

Shri was too shocked a son to argue with his father, so he took his only way out.

Dealers won't sell drugs to pregnant addict

Drug dealers said no to Geraldine Stone when she tried to buy crack cocaine — because she was pregnant.

"The drug dealers told me I was a killer," said Geraldine of Jacksonville, Fla. "I had to go across town where they didn't know me to get my rock."

The former crack dealers said many dealers won't sell to pregnant women.

"Right off the bat, if you sell drugs to a pregnant woman, you are killing that baby's chance to live," said one drug dealer.

SEX-CHANGE CUTIE WINS BEAUTY CONTEST!

BEFORE: She was always Helen grew up as Alan.

LIFE is now wonderful, Helen says. She has met the man of her dreams and they are planning a June wedding.

Just three years ago she was a wimp named Alan!

By MARTHA ATKINS

Life was miserable for wimpy Alan Finch when he was growing up, but thanks to a sex-change operation, Alan became a gorgeous blonde named Helen — and she's just won a beauty contest!

"I have gained a lot of confidence in the three years since I went through the change," she said.

So she entered a regional beauty pageant sponsored by a national publication — and won.

"I couldn't believe it when I won," said the happy young woman. "It made me realize that people really accepted me as a woman. It was one of the happiest moments of my life!"

And to make things even better, Helen met a handsome young man and fell in love. Six months after they met he proposed. And now they're looking forward to a June wedding.

Helen talked about the difficult years she spent as a boy during a recent interview.

"I knew something wasn't right but I didn't know what it was — I knew there as Alan. — was a sissy. I was always crying. I was always getting picked on. I was always getting beaten up. I was always getting called names because I was so delicate and girlish.

"I lacked confidence and was always crying. I didn't know why," said the sex-change role. "Then when I was 17 I read a book about a girl who had undergone a sex change. For the first time I understood what was wrong.

"I talked to my mum about it and she told me not to worry, that everything would work out."

Helen went to a doctor who performed blood tests that showed she was lacking a male chromosome. She was overjoyed to finally find out what was wrong with her.

When Helen turned 18 she threw out all her male clothes, bought a pair of false breasts and happened her youngest sister's dresses.

"I decided that for the rest of my life I was going to live as a woman," said Helen.

Three years ago, Helen, her mother and sister flew to Australia, where she had a sex-change operation.

"For the first time in my life I felt complete," she said. "What I felt on the inside matched the way I was on the outside." And now Helen's looking forward to a happy married life.

"All I ever wanted was to live a normal life. I don't want a big house and a flashy car," she said. "I want love in a home with Fall brings dead girl back to life!

Schoolgirl Trainee Wiltshire was dead as a doornail but she miraculously came back to life when her mother slipped and fell while carrying her down a flight of stairs.

The 4-year-old girl crashed her head on a concrete step and was crushed under her mother's weight. But the hanging breaths her body. It started her breathing again.

"I panicked when I went to Trainee's bedroom and saw her lying there completely purple," Margaret Wiltshire, the child's 31-year-old mother, told reporters in Worthing, England.

"She had stopped breathing

If I hadn't taken she would still be dead.

"She started making a little moaning noise in her throat and then she started breathing again."

Doctors said the girl lost consciousness and stopped breathing after she swallowed a large amount of air fresheners

Evil dad forced his daughter to have sex with him — so he wouldn't get AIDS!

A divorced father forced his teenage daughter to have sex with him for three years so he wouldn't get AIDS.

The scumbag dad's despicable affair ended when his 16-year-old daughter told one of her teachers at Calgary, Canada, what had been going on.

"She lived with her father and was afraid not to do what he wanted," said Crown Attorney Carol Berezuke.

"He threatened to isolate her from her friends, body by ripping her clothes, and said he would kill her cat unless she had sex with him," said Berezuke.

Authorities wouldn't identify the heartless creep to protect the identity of his daughter.

He said he was lonely and depressed since his divorce, but didn't want to pay hookers for sex and risk catching AIDS, according to Berezuke.

"I'm . . . a fairly healthy person so I don't want to catch any diseases, especially AIDS," the heartless father, 48, wrote in his confession.

The courts planted guilty to incest and having sex with a female under 14. A judge sentenced him to three years in prison.

His 16-year-old daughter has been sent to live with her mother, who has agreed to have the teen undergo psychiatric therapy.

"The father is going to find out the risk of AIDS is far greater in prison than in the red light district of Calgary," said Berezuke.

"There's always a possibility his inmate pals may do to him what he did to his daughter. Convicts don't look kindly on sex offenders. I wouldn't want to be him."

Cemetery shocker

Up to 45,000 dead people may have been buried in graves that were already occupied with bodies in a Louisville cemetery.

Dozens of infants were buried in shallow graves only 10 inches below the surface, said Kentucky Atty. Gen. investigator Jim Caldwell.

Remains of more than 300 cremated bodies were found on shelves in the cemetery's crematorium.

Cemetery officials have been indicted on criminal charges.

Evil twin masquerades as his brother!

GOOD twin Patrick Klein escaped from his basement prison and called the cops on his evil brother.

Man locked up in basement six weeks by jealous double who:

Stole his money & Porsche!

Took over his big buck job!

Moved in with his sexy wife!

By LAURIE STERLE

Jealous Nicolas Klein stole his twin brother's life. He locked Patrick Klein in a basement and took his money, house and brand-new Porsche.

He even moved in with Patrick's kids and beautiful wife!

"I've been a cop for 35 years and I've never seen anything like it," said Lt. Paul Vincent of the police department in Lyons, France.

"Nicolas Klein usurped Patrick Klein's identity and took over every aspect of his life. He slapped into his job as a high-paid banking executive. He moved into his house ... of husband and father to Patrick Klein's wife and kids. He got away with the charade for six weeks and probably could have kept it up a lot longer.

"But Patrick Klein escaped from his basement prison and blew the whistle.

"It was a simple matter to check fingerprints and confirm what was going on." Nicolas Klein was charged with kidnapping. Other charges could be added as investigators work the case and force up to 20 years in prison if convicted and the cop.

In his statement to police the 36-year-old man allegedly ... [illegible] ... Patrick Klein's happy home life and business success.

He reportedly said he ... only one way to get back at the twin he hated — and that was to steal his life.

"It wasn't that hard to do ... Patrick and I are identical twins — we look just alike," Nicolas Klein told cops.

"I also knew everything ... about Patrick.

"Once I got him locked up ... I assumed it was an easy thing to steal his clothes and take over his life.

"Nobody suspected any ... thing, not even Catherine, his wife."

Catherine Klein refused to discuss the incident with reporters and the children, ages 2 and 3, are too young to understand what happened.

But Patrick Klein said, "If the authorities don't send [illegible] to prison, I'll kill him with my bare hands."

"You can't imagine how traumatic this has been for my family and for me," he added. "It's like we've been living in a nightmare for the past six weeks.

"I just wonder if things will ever be the same for us again."

Some workers pay just don't square with. This notice outside an Albany, N.Y., cemetery could be considered a chilling sign of things to come for all of us.

DEPUTIES trailed shooting suspect Ulie Reynolds, 82.

Gramps, 82, kills cops who gave him a ride!

Two cops offered a ride to an 82-year-old man whose car got stuck in a ditch and the old man repaid the favor by shooting both officers in the head!

Authorities in Ripley, Tenn., charged Ulie Reynolds with two counts of murder in the slayings of Lauderdale County sheriff's deputies Kevin Ward, 31, and Bobby Nolen, 36. Investigators said Reynolds had a criminal record that stretches back to 1927 and includes convictions for voluntary manslaughter and assault and battery with intent to kill.

But the two deputies who offered Reynolds a lift had no idea who they were dealing with.

Reynolds, who also worked as a barber, was driving from his home in Gary, Ind., to attend his brother's funeral in Bolivar, Tenn., when he got lost near Ripley and ran off the road.

"I wouldn't call it an accident," said Bill Dooley, a spokesman for the sheriff's office. "Reynolds just drove off the road and got stuck in a ditch."

Dooley said Deputies Kevin Ward and Bobby Nolen happened by and stopped to help Reynolds.

"They called for a tow truck then offered to give Reynolds a ride into town," said Dooley. "Reynolds was not under arrest. The deputies were just taking him to get assistance."

The deputies had not driven far with Reynolds in the backseat when the old man pulled out a .357 Magnum and shot both officers from point-blank range in the back of the head, Dooley said.

Reynolds was knocked unconscious when the patrol car careened off the road and crashed. He was still out when police arrived on the scene. Reynolds was treated for a dislocated shoulder before being booked into the Tipton County jail on murder and weapons charges.

"He cooperated, saying the reason he did it is because he wanted out of the car," said Dooley.

"He wasn't in custody at the time of arrest. If he wanted out of the car, all he had to do was ask."

Here's how you can become a MUMMY!

LON CHANEY JR. appeared as a mummy in the 1932 film classic Universal's Tomb. Now you too can become a mummy!

Company offers bizarre way to go out in style — & be preserved forever!

If you want to be remembered long after you've passed on, a Utah-based company can turn you into a real mummy so you'll be preserved forever — just like King Tut was thousands of years ago.

Summum is the only company to offer modern-day mummification and has its headquarters in Salt Lake City. So far, 100 men and women — all still living — have signed up for the process.

"Most of the people who sign up are in their 30s and 40s," said Corky Ra of Summum's Irvine, Calif., office. "They do it because they want to be remembered after they're gone.

"This is very important to them. We even have celebrities and world leaders who've signed up."

If you wait until you're already dead to pay for the mummification process, it'll cost you about $37,000, depending on how fancy of a mummy you want to be. But if you sign up while you're still young, it's not that expensive.

Those in their 30s pay only about $3,000. Summum arranges for you to take out a universal life insurance policy which you can pay in one lump sum or pay off in monthly installments of a couple of dollars a month.

Everything is included in the price, from flowers for the funeral to mummification. You can either be placed in a traditional casket or sealed within a "mummiform," an artform which represents a memorialization of your life.

And if you really want something fancy, you can even have your form, thanks to a life-mask sculpted before death.

"The body is embalmed for the viewing and funeral services," said Ra, "but it's done by our mummification because it needs to be done a little differently."

After the funeral, the body is shipped to Boca Raton, Fla., for the Summum-invented process.

First, the body is immersed for 30 days in special chemicals and herbs. Next, the body is coated with oils and lotions designed to keep the skin supple.

Finally, the body is wrapped in gauze and cotton, or silk and linen, depending on what the customer paid for, and sealed into a Mummiform, which is usually bronze but could be another metal of choice.

Once the mummification process is complete, the Mummiform is ready to be placed inside a mausoleum. This way the family can come and view it whenever they want.

The Summum philosophy is that mummification leaves a loved one in a state to be visited years later by relatives and to be seen as the deceased was in life.

"I've even had my pet Doberman Butch and my cat Oscar mummified," said Ra. "The process is permanent and will last forever, unless somehow the Mummiform got broken."

Turn your terror tot into a little angel!

Easy ways to tame [illegible] kids

You can turn your hyperactive tot into a well-behaved little angel, experts say — and you don't need special pills or treatments to do it.

Just by making sure your charged-up child gets a healthy natural diet and vitamin and mineral supplements, you can significantly change his behavior, according to pediatrician Dr. Caroline Shreeve.

By SUSAN ANDSON

She says that hyperactivity begins in the womb with a baby that kicks more than normal. Hyperactive newborns cry more, feed poorly and sleep only a few hours a day. They may have high IQs, but they are poor learners, late talkers and have trouble concentrating.

"Until very recently, families that had hyperactive children were forced to cope with their problems alone, without support," Dr. Shreeve said. "Now new research has resulted in hyperactivity becoming more widely known as a disease caused by lack of a body chemical called GLA.

"And thanks to the research we now know there are simple changes you can make in your child's life that will benefit him — and you — enormously."

Symptoms of hyperactivity include poor muscular coordination, unusual thirst, chest complaints and headaches, allergies, asthma, eczema and temperamentalness. In addition to corn, milk and gluten in wheat and other cereals, if your child exhibits these symptoms use the following guidelines to change his diet. [illegible] your child's diet, consult closely with your doctor.

● Reduce or eliminate additives. The less additives your child's diet contains, the calmer he will be.

● Use fresh, natural [illegible] and processed foods.

● Feed your child whole wheat bread and flour products. If he's allergic to gluten, find gluten-free substitutes.

● Milk and cheese should be included in the diet. If your child can't tolerate cow's milk, use goat's milk products.

● Provide healthful foods, not junk foods, for snacks. Sugars, chocolate, chewing gum, potato chips, store-bought cakes and cookies are out.

● Since a poor shortage in symptoms related to hyperactivity, make sure your child gets plenty of zinc by giving him liver, egg yolk, meat and unpolished powder.

● Give your child a daily multivitamin and mineral supplement.

● To supply your child's missing GLA, use pure pollen extracts for primrose oil.

EXCITABLE kids who throw temper tantrums will be calmed with a healthful diet including fresh fruit and vegetables, whole grains, fish, poultry, beans, nuts and dairy products.

Goddess endures a living hell!

GODDESS will be moved out into the streets on a few days.

the grim temple she lives in. She isn't even allowed to smile.

"She's a bird in a gilded cage and her life is a never-ending nightmare," declared Sharada Subedi, a human rights activist from Kathmandu, Nepal's capital city.

"She is worshiped by millions but will never know the joys of childhood or find romance in her mother's home.

"She was taken from her parents as a baby at 3 and has not seen or heard from them since.

"People envy her high status in life.

"But she envies them. She wants their normal lives," said Subedi.

The Nepalese have been choosing Living Goddesses for at least 200 years, said Subedi. The children are worshiped as deities by Nepalese citizens until they reach puberty.

After that they are cast out of the temple and forgotten by the masses who once adored them.

"It's even more horrifying than it sounds," said Subedi. "Living Goddesses receive no education so they are not prepared to take care of themselves or earn a living in the real world.

"All they know how to do is wear jewels and live in seclusion in their temples. They are only let out to walk to the next chosen seven times a year and that's an ordinary citizens can see them.

"Living Goddesses have no friends. They are not even allowed to smile.

"When they reach puberty they will be forgotten and most likely become beggars. The people who loved and worshiped them will then despise them because they believe Living Goddesses who have their innocence are cursed.

"Ironically, they are cursed. They are cursed the day they're born."

Mar. 21-Apr. 20

A bright idea solves a nagging money problem. Your words of flurry about cash are over, but don't rush out to the stores until the weekend.

You make contact with one who can help you realize your dreams and personal goals. Look to a Libra.

A disagreement with your mate could interfere with plans made to spend time with in-laws and family.

Postpone trips and entertainments as you can take care of health problems — yours or a loved one's.

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Your zest for the good life experiences gets you in trouble, but this week you'll come out on top in every situation.

Your good money sense could nudge you to your financial heights if you're careful.

Re-evaluate and discard plans that just aren't working. The focus is on making up new goals — both short and long term.

Try walking in your mate's shoes before taking a stand on a burning issue.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

A major change of some kind is on the way. Keep your sense of humor and all will turn out to your advantage.

A pileup of housework chores, errands and obligations has you on the fire's midbreath.

Look for good news about someone close to you.

Extravagance on the weekend could wreck the budget.

Unexpected news of a friend's lying in is devastating, but you'll recover with a loved one's help.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

You're in for a streak of good luck, and patience will pay off financially.

Be enterprising, and take advantage of this time period.

Be wary of friends who are quick to offer advice in making a romantic decision — especially a Taurus, as they do not have your best interests at heart.

A phone call will bring welcome news.

Doors are due to open that you were told were closed forever. Enjoy!

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

You are due for a surprise. Keep your eyes open because it could appear anywhere. Don't hesitate. Grab it when you see it.

On Tuesday, creativity is high, and Gemini devotees fall into place nicely.

Victories abound on the weekend, when your desire is to go exploring.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

A conversation with an old friend will put you in contact with one who can provide the information you need to go on and fulfill a long-term goal. This week could settle a lot of worries about your future.

Yellow is not only a cheerful color which suits your sunny personality, it is also a source of good luck for you.

It will be your lucky charm if worn this week.

Saturday brings good news, and a joyous family event.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 23

Your love life gets a terrific uplift and you're in for a romantic sleigh ride!

False information is a source of anger and hurt, and you could be caught up in an embarrassing situation. Discreet investigation will pay off and give you a chance to resolve the problem.

Driving could be hazardous, especially when rushing to errand done to Scorpio. Be on the alert.

Friends make the weekend a happy one. Enjoy!

SCORPIO
Oct. 24-Nov. 21

This man was president of the U.S. — for one day!

Believe it or not, the U.S. once had a president that no one has a single bad thing to say about.

"Maybe that's because no one ever heard of him — not even when he was running the country," says noted historian Frederick Harlowe.

By Mark BLACKBURN

"He's not mentioned in very many history books, but the interviewers here didn't allow the administration to get involved in any scandal. didn't wage any wars — and, remarkably, didn't dig into the surplus any pockets for a single penny," Harlowe points out.

Who was this dream prez?

David Rice Atcheson. That's who — the legal president of the United States for just one day, March 4, 1849.

Atcheson, U.S. Senator from Missouri, was president pro tem of the Senate that March 4.

At midnight on March 3, 1849, the terms of office for James Knox Polk, our 11th president and his vice president, George M. Dallas, came to an end — and no successor. Because War hero Gen. Zachary Taylor, was scheduled to take office, to be sworn in the next day. But March 4 was a Sunday — and Taylor, an extremely religious man, refused to take the oath as the 12th president on the Sabbath.

"We'll do it Monday!" he proclaimed to a stunned Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, who, Harlowe notes, probably was on the verge of a cardiac arrest at this wanton violation of the Constitution.

"Now, the U.S. must always have a president," continues the historian, "and under the laws of succession that existed then, for that one 24-hour period, the president pro tem of the Senate, David Rice Atcheson, was the chief executive of the nation."

In an interview later that year he told a Kansas City newspaperman, "I can honestly say that when I was president I involved this country in no wars or foreign entanglements. Neither did I levy any taxes or impose any other burden on the citizenry of this nation. Nor was I wasteful with government funds.

"In fact, my sole expenditure that day was for a bit of liquid refreshments for some friends who wanted me to appoint them — temporarily, of course, to cabinet posts. And I paid for those spirits out of my pocket."

Farewell to arms

The severed arm of Mexican General Alvaro Obregon that was blown off in 1915 by Pancho Villa has been laid to rest.

The arm was on display as a tourist attraction in Mexico City until the government's relatives asked that it be buried.

Rapist's wife becomes pals with his victim!

By PETE COOKE

A rape victim who was held prisoner for 12 terrible hours says she managed to cope with the ordeal only with help from her attacker's wife.

Janet Kirkwood was attending the trial of her attacker, Victor Powell, 44, when she met Powell's wife and the two women became friends.

"I couldn't believe it when his wife came over during the case and said to me, 'Don't worry, I know how you feel,'" said the pretty 37-year-old victim.

British authorities said Powell, who served time for raping two teenage girls, abducted Miss Kirkwood and tied her to a brass bed where she was assaulted during the 12 hours Powell held her captive. "I know she went through hell ... so did I," said Powell's 33-year-old wife Janet.

Mrs. Powell sat with Miss Kirkwood throughout the rape trial in St. Albans, England, and even invited the victim home to have dinner with her and her children. "I'll never forget what she did for me," said Miss Kirkwood.

Mrs. Powell and Miss Kirkwood cheered when Powell's stunned with his conviction on charges of rape and kidnapping.

While Powell was awaiting sentencing, his wife divorced him.

Hot idea for kitties

Cat lover Jeff Malinowski figures he can save a lot of pitiful kitties from dying in clothes dryers — with the help of a simple magnet.

The Marine City, Mich., man is marketing a Kitty Finder Reminder, a refrigerator-type magnet that can be stuck to dryers to alert folks to check for the cat before turning the dryer on.

Animal groups say clothes dryer accidents are one of the most common causes of death for kitties.

"It's kind of a hidden problem," Malinowski, 23, said. "Nobody wants to admit they left their cat in the dryer.

"I was lucky to have spotted my cat just before I turned on the machine. We thought this must happen to other people, too."

The Kitty Finder Reminder magnets are sold by ZMD Products, P.O. Box 39431, Marine City, Mich. 48026.

Dope dealer's wrong number turns out to be the cops

A stupid drug dealer didn't know he had the wrong number when he phoned a friend to set up a cocaine buy — and got the cops instead.

"The guy said something like, 'Is Al there?' and our agent said 'No, this is John,'" said Police Commissioner Gene Shepard of Des Moines, Iowa.

The dopey dealer described a drug swap that apparently had been prearranged with "Al."

Police at first thought it was a nuisance call, but the suspect was so insistent that the deal had to "go down" immediately, they changed their minds.

"The guy convinced us he really wanted to make a drug buy," said Commissioner Carter. "So we thought we would oblige him."

An agent haggled with the suspect over price and other details and arranged a meeting place for the transaction.

The agents agreed to buy a small amount of pot.

They arrested the suspect and another man a short time later. The transaction involved about four ounces of marijuana.

"It's not every day you arrest two people just on a wrong number," said the commissioner.

Holy honkers! This poor guy lost

Heaven sent Patrick Williams his half his share of troubles. The poor guy had his sweet knocked off — twice!

Williams, 32, was sitting in a parked car about 16 months ago when a crazed stranger blasted him in the face with a shotgun.

The Toledo, Ohio, carjacker underwent plastic surgery and doctors fixed him up pretty well.

They gave the gunshot victim a spiffy new nose made out of a plastic form covered with skin grafts. It looked perfectly fine and Williams was happy with it.

He showed off his new schnoz at December 26 when an angry acquaintance clobbered Williams in the face with his fist, then grabbed his schnoz and pulled it off.

"When the police arrived later on, they found Williams sitting on the apartment stairs with his nose in his hand," said Tanya Ruh, a reporter for a little boys went out to play in 1951 — and never came back!

PARENTS' 38-YEAR VIGIL FOR THEIR 3 MISSING KIDS

FAMILY group picture shows the Kleins just before the three boys disappeared in November 1951.

By SUSAN JAMISON

Betty and Kenneth Klein's three small sons went out to play one day and disappeared without a trace, but the heartbroken couple have never given up hope of finding them — although it's been 38 years since they vanished.

Every time a strange car drives by the Kleins' home in Monticello, Minn., the devoted parents look to see if it's one of their boys coming home at last. Year in and year out, they run ads in the local paper saying, "We are still waiting to hear from you. Call Mom & Dad."

For almost four decades now there has been no sign of the boys — Kenneth, 8 years old when he disappeared, David, 6 at the time, and Danny, 4 when he was last seen. Still, the aging Kleins wait, and hope, and wait.

"I believe someday I'll see them," said Betty, 69, a housewife. "We believe they're still alive. You have to keep believing — you have to have hope.

"I keep thinking they'll contact us, that maybe they'll remember us. We keep thinking that one day one of the boys will walk up to the door."

The three Klein boys vanished after going to a small park in Minneapolis, where the Kleins then lived, on Nov. 10, 1951. When their older brother Gordy went to search for them later, he couldn't find them. After hours of frantic searching by the desperate father and a brother-in-law, the police were called in.

Thousands of posters bearing the kids' pictures were made up and distributed and volunteers searched the area.

After a three-day manhunt, authorities found two of the boys' caps in the Mississippi River. They called off the search, concluding that the three youngsters had fallen into the water and been buried under the silt.

But other searchers told the Kleins it was unlikely the three children would disappear so completely in the open [illegible]

Every time a strange car drives by, the couple hopes it's one of their boys finally coming home!

YOU CAN HELP

The Kleins have asked NEWS readers to contact them at Box 334, Route 2, Monticello, Minn., 55362 if they have any information about their three missing sons.

The Kleins believe they were kidnapped and the cops were thrown in the river to put police off the trail.

So for the Kleins, there has never been an end to the quest to find their children — even after they have four more boys who give them much happiness.

"We still grieve for them," Betty said.

"As they grew up, as time went on, there was not any little [illegible] that walked in our house we didn't think might be one of our boys coming home.

"We have lived a rich and happy life, but there is this big empty place inside us. The boys are always on our minds."

The Kleins think their children were probably sold on the black market and wound up adopted by a couple who knew nothing of their backgrounds. They're hoping the ads of the boys, Kenneth, will decide to look them up. They believe he is the one most likely to have memories of another life with another loving mom and dad.

"I keep thinking he has a feeling in his life that there's something missing," Betty said. "We want him to know we're still waiting and we have [illegible] love to give him."
